

I swim to the shore and reach the beach finally my hands grip the sand the earth devours me I give myself away become mould again
the sun bursts in flames I become earth again the chalk is in my hands and I'm on the sea bed steep cliffs before me waves that shatter on the rock currents and wind wrestling like an inner storm chalk ridges meet the sea and I'm dead in this waste land I'm made of silt and clay

I feel the universe
I feel you drained me Evolutionary
Strengthen my day dream you drained my love for you as I drained yours for me there was nothing left again I held the ground water

In winter's hour
I stood observing the brightness of the clear night sky and thought
oh were she in my dream I'd wake us up I'd transform all the worlds hate in a fire a supernova in slow motion would let the sun explode in flames for a second when all shut my ice princess fell in the snow

I would in an ice cave wait for you and solidify into eternity make time relative call back the errors of mankind let my love shine through the ice. and run to grip you from falling into the abyss when I thought something had happened let my flow of thoughts be like waves, like currents that carry you